How To Fix Unable To Inject Netredirectdll

Aug 9, 2014 I ran this set of commands on my Windows Server 2012 R2 and I also have the same issues regedit /s C:\Program Files\Counter-Strike: Global Offensive\update.ini deleting the file named C:\Windows\Microsoft.NET\Framework\v2.0.50727\PolicyEnforcement.oders.cache deleting the file named .NET\Framework\v2.0.50727\policyEnforcement.cache Removed all previous configs. Rebooted the machine. But the exception still arises and the hack wasn't effective -----  OMM: Caught BadImageFormatException, Module name: NetRedirect, Type name: System.Security.Principal.WindowsIdentity, Version: 4.0.0.0, Public key token: 000000040012AECC, Public key blob: 905C253850B4620C0D7E3D05CD75A625142789B3
===== Re: Unable to inject Netredirectdll i'm not sure what file in the update.ini needed to be changed... looking at your file is the same as mine. anyways, on step 7 that you linked to, what did you put in the "Net.Http.dll" field? also what steps did you take? if you need anymore info, i'm available to answer any questions via PM or comments. Does anyone know how to solve the issue? I run into the BadImageFormatException when I try and run the net.redirect.dll file Also I have tried renaming the file.net\framework\v2.0.50727\policyEnforcement.cache and.net\framework\v2.0.50727\policyEnforcement.oders.cache and neither worked. Thank you. Was there an extension on the dll? I've faced the same issue and then decided to rename the file. The server service fails to start after the rename Re: Unable to inject Netredirectdll you dont have to do anything for me. i have the same issue, and i tried renaming the file, but it still didnt work. it doesn't work in my machine too. what i did is to replace the dll with the one i have 3da54e8ca3
